

BrainPOP

BrainPOP is an professional organization/website that provides educational videos based on various topics within a multitude of subject areas. These videos have proven to be a valuable tool within the classroom, especially when it comes to introducing new information to students. While these videos do not always go into major detail about topics, they do provide a basic explanation of key concepts in a manner that students are able to understand and enjoy. Although the majority of these videos require a pair membership to view, some of them are free. Check them out at www.brainpop.com.
